INTRODUCTION

Extensive institutional and student data are collected from schools certified to operate under the provisions of sections 173.600 through 173.619 of the Missouri statutes. These data are processed and maintained as a planning and decision-making resource for the schools submitting the data and for the Missouri Coordinating Board for Higher Education. They permit observation of the characteristics, scope, and economic impact of the proprietary sector and the identification of trends.

This is the twelfth publication derived from those data collection efforts. It is a compilation of the data collected for schools certified during calendar year 2000 and a graphic display highlighting changes in this sector over a five-year period. It is important to note that the proprietary sector is somewhat more heterogeneous and fluid than other sectors of postsecondary education, and its configuration is in a continual process of evolution. Keeping that in mind while reviewing the data as presented, it should be understood that the data present a snapshot of the activity at these schools for the 2000 calendar year.

Data for 88 Missouri-based private career schools and 22 out-of-state regionally accredited degree granting institutions are reported in the statistical summary portion of this report. While data are displayed by individual schools, the observations made in this narrative and in the graphical displays are based on aggregated information and analyses.

It should be noted that some of the tables and graphs contained in the report do not include enrollment information for correspondence schools. This is a result of the limited nature of data collection activities considered feasible for this type of school. Current goals of the certification program include enhancement of the student-oriented data collected from correspondence schools. This will allow broader inclusion of these schools in future reports.

During 2000, Missouri private career schools enrolled 54,779 students in 996 instructional programs of a widely varied nature. This figure includes students enrolled in on-campus programs as well as those receiving their education by correspondence. As the graphical section indicates, the largest student enrollment is in precision technology, which includes programs related to computer science, engineering technology and precision production. Allied health programs have shown a substantial increase in enrollment and share of total enrollment and have become the second largest student enrollment area, while business programs have fallen from the largest enrollment to fourth among the listed categories.

The changing workplace is bringing students into private career schools with different needs and goals. For example, students attending private career schools are enrolling with better educational preparation as evidenced by the low percentage that are enrolling without a general educational development (GED) certificate or high school diploma. Because a degree often provides greater opportunities for advancement and earning potential, private career school students also have shown a strong interest in degree programs. Of the total number of students enrolled in Missouri private career schools (excluding correspondence programs), 28 percent report they are pursuing a degree.

The data also indicate that private career schools are continuing a high level of performance in the area of success of graduates finding employment in their fields of study. The employment rate for graduates was 75 percent, unchanged from the two previous years. This is another obvious indication that this sector is strongly attuned to the needs of business and industry.

The Missouri private career schools included in this report graduated 22,212 students into the employment market, expended over $136 million into the state's economy, and employed 2,628 persons with a payroll of over $63 million. In addition, they awarded over $111 million in student financial aid. Clearly, the private career school sector is a sizeable segment of postsecondary education in Missouri that continues to command public interest.

The integrity of this directory and statistical summary is sensitive to the accuracy of the data submitted by individual schools and to the processes of recording and displaying those data by the Department of Higher Education. The utmost care has been exerted to maximize its integrity; however, total attainment of that goal is still being pursued. Inquiries regarding the contents of this publication should be directed to Leroy Wade, Director, Proprietary School Certification Program, Department of Higher Education, 3515 Amazonas Drive, Jefferson City, Missouri 65109-5717; (573) 751-2361; <http://www.cbhe.state.mo.us>.
